Engineers Held Lead in Contest

290 Donated Blood To Clinic Yesterday

By SELMA SKOLL

Only 28 more donors were needed yesterday to break a record.

A total of 290 students donated their pint of blood to the Blood Donors Campaign yesterday to come close to the all-time McGill record of 318 donors in one day set last year.

No Beds

An atmosphere of informality pervaded the basement of the Physical Science as students started streaming in to give their blood. There was not a vacant bed from the time the Clinic opened until closing time at 5.30 p.m.

Both Red Cross officials and members of the Blood Donors Campaign Committee were extremely pleased with the response. "It seemed like one big happy family," a spokesman said.

Engineers have gained a 2.04 per cent lead in the Interfaculty Contest. A total of 20.18 percent of Engineering and Architecture students together have given blood. They are followed by Arts and Science with 18.14 percent Commerce with 12.76 percent. ... .....

"It looks like Commercemen will be sweeping and cleaning Graduates Row clad in their red flannels," an elated engineers said.

LOT OF SPIRIT

The little faculty with a lot of spirit, the Faculty of Divinity, is now leading the campus in donating bood. Thirty-three and one third of its members have given blood.

Yesterday's campus leaders, the school of Physiotherpy, are close behind the Faculty of Divinity with 31.87 percent. Third place on the campus as engineering.

The number of donors from Medicine greatly improved yesterday over the previous days of the campaign. However, Commerce, Law, Dentistry and Physical Education are still below the 13 per cent of

RED AND WHITE

All those interested in writing music, lyrics, or script for this year's Red and White Revue, and particularly sketches and other written material for an all-college Revue, please drop in at the Red and White Revue Office in the Union between 1-2 p.m. today.

MODERN LEECHING is much more pleasant than its Medeaval counterpart. As can be seen from the illustration above, immediately the blood-drawing process is completed a full and satisfying snack is provided, free of charge. Instead of dropping into the Union for a mid-afternoon or mid-morning coffee, Blood Donor Clinic Officials suggest you donate a pint and get your coffee and doughnuts free. (Daily Photo by Parsons.)

McGill in the Black For First Time Since the War

Principal James Releases The Annual Report

For the first time since the end of the war, McGill ended its fiscal year with a surplus. The aid from friends of the University and a Federal Government grant exceeded expenses by $17,325. This was released yesterday by Dr. F. Cyril James, principal and vice-chancellor, in the annual report.

Big Factors

"Each of these factors in the university's financial solvency is important. I have already mentioned the expression of our gratitude to the Government of Canada and the Government of Quebec. Our appreciation of the generous contributions of Canadian corporations and of the annual subscriptions of interested individuals is equally profound.

The number of graduates during the past session was 1,486, and by dividing this figure into the total expenditure for the year of $7,059,867, an average expenditure per graduate of $4,750 is obtained. Of this amount $1,962 was derived from fees and $2,768 from other sources.

Three Times

In connection with this table, Dr. James states that "comparison reveals the interesting fact that the cost of aMcGill degree today is substantially less than three times what it cost in 1902.

The university's gratitude for the continuing support of its many friends is set forth warmly by Dr. James.

Private Means

"No reference to the financial affairs of the university during the past session can be made without expressing at the same time the warmth of our appreciation of the generosity, and personal interest, of all those whose names appear in the list of gifts, grants and be-

New Union, Student Help McGill Needs

A need for additional student facilities, particularly a New Union, and financial aid to deserving students were two of the more important points emphasized in the "Student Activities" section of Dr. James' report.

A New Building

"Every member of the University hopes that the day will come when it will be possible to construct a new building," the report said, referring to the Union. It added that this building should be as well equipped for present day students "as was the generous gift of the present Union by Sir William Macdonald in 1906, when student enrolment was no more than 1,248."

Concerning the need for financial aid, Dr. James pointed out that "the cost of education to the student in Canada is greater than it is in either Great Britain or the United States." He stressed the importance of the problem and the need for "serious attention" by the governmental authorities.

Substitute Motion To Be Presented By Scott

Today at 1.15 p.m. the first Students' Society Meeting of the session will be held in the Union Ballroom.

Students are reminded that a quorum of 250 is required in order for the proceedings of the meeting to be official. All regular undergraduates of the University are members of the Students' Society and have a vote at this meeting.

The main item on the agenda is a substitute motion to be presented by John Scott, one of the McGill Representatives at the NFCUS Conference in Quebec City the week before last.

The Substitute motion will take the place of the original contained in a petition signed by 280 students. The meeting has been called through this petition.

The motion, which calls for the Students' Society to express its desire to participate with at least ten other Canadian Universities in arranging the proposed Soviet-Canadian student exchange. The motion for the approval and arrangement of the tour was defeated at the recent NFCUS meeting in Quebec by a minority veto, Laval threatening to seceed from the National Federation if the motion were carried.

The substitute motion, supported by the five McGill delegates to the Quebec Conference, was drawn up, said Scott, "so that our position may be clearly understood on the other campuses."

Students' Society meetings in the past have often fallen short of the required quorum, and a Students' Society spokesman urged all students to consider the importance of the motion to be presented and to attend the meeting.

"The subject of the student-exchange has been prominent for quite some time now, and this motion is the first definite statement of McGill's position in the matter," the spokesman added.

Toronto Stays In NFCUS

Toronto, Oct. 29. —CUP.— By unanimous vote last night the Students' Administrative Council of the University of Toronto decided to have the University of Toronto stay in the National Federation of Canadian University Students (NFCUS).

The Council also agreed that it approved the principle of a Soviet-Canadian tour and that it look into the feasibility of the University of Toronto sponsoring such an exchange. It voted to deplore the actions of those delegations at the Laval Conference that changed their votes on threats of withdrawal.

Toronto was the first university to pass such a motion favouring a Soviet-Canadian exchange after the Laval Conference.

BLOOD COUNT

The number of blood donations received yesterday was 290, a rise of 45 donations from Tuesday's total. This brings the complete total so far to 738 donations which is not quite half of the objective to be reached by Friday.

Individual Faculty donations were as follows:

Arts and Science, 113; Engineering, 99; Architecture, 6; Commerce, 21; Law, 2; Medecine, 15; Graduate Studies, 7; Physiotherapy, 9; Divinity,5; Physical Education, 3; Staff, 1; Music, 1; Nursing, 5; Social Work, 3.

The Engineers have pushed ahead in the interfaculty contest with a 2.04 percent lead over Arts and Science and a 7.42 percent lead over Commerce.

Calls To The Daily

Students are reminded that the Daily has two phone numbers, LA. 2244 and BE. 1108. The Lancaster number, for some reason seems to get far too much use, while the Belair number gets almost none. As a result, people calling the Daily on the Lancaster number have trouble, because of the congestion, while the Belair number goes unused. Therefore: Will persons calling the Daily please use the Belair number. If it is busy, the call on the Lancaster number.

A Possible Solution

Divinity Invites Nine Nurses To Hoe-Down—War Ended?

By LARRY GENENDER

Yesterday, the Daily ran a story relating the sordid details of the internal strife among the graduate nurses.

The apparent reason for the riots, was the statement made to a Daily reporter by nine of the 55 graduate nurses to the effect that the said nine nurses were bored with no men in their faculty.

The aforementioned Daily reporter, being a resourceful chap, approached 'the little faculty with a lot of spirit', the Faculty of Divinity, with the nurses' problem. Whereupon Divinity, displaying some of their 'lot of spirit', invited the nine nurses into their faculty.

This then, is the incident. The rest of the graduate nurses are earnestly searching the nine culprits.

Divinity, being a party to the incident, have not regarded the matter with indifference. Yesterday, the 'Little Faculty' issued the following statement:

Special to the Daily:

"Lest civil war become rampant among the graduate nurses of McGill, let it be known that we Divinity students are interested in those aforementioned nine nurses to the extent that we issue them an invitation to attend the Divinity Hoe-Down taking place Nov. 7th, at 8:30 p.m. The candidates must appear in uniform minus hypodermic needles, equipped with one candle in lit condition. It is to be understood than only nine will gain admission at the door. Only the candles are to be in lit condition.

"After admission has been gained, the lucky nine will be required to put on a ten minute skit on the theme "A Nightingale Sang In Divinity Hall" or "We Are Just A Bunch Of Lamps, Lit."

"The nine will then be at leisure to attend any casualties which occur among the Hoe-Downers and will be free to administer as much TLC as is needful. They will be on duty until time is called for refreshments.

"Let us hear the conclusion of this whole matter. Let all strife cease with the emergence of nine volunteers.

Signed:

"The little faculty with a lot of spirit."

Whether the nine nurses will reveal themselves after such a tempting invitation, thus ending the bloodshed among the warring factions, only time will tell.

Virginians Hold that Co-eds Are Aggressive and Horsey

Daily Athanaeum—(Exchange)—Are women becoming more independant and self-willed?

A quick survey held at the University of West Virginia reveals that the young ladies not only think for themselves, but they are glad to admit it. Instead of remaining in the background, the young lady is not only too willing to give her opinions.

A sorely debated subject of controversy today is the matter of hair styles. Nine out of ten men prefer long tresses, so how many University coeds have even shoulder length hair?

Men also complain about girls wearing make-up. They seem to prefer that natural look. However, cosmetics companies are doing a bigger business than ever; which shows that the young lady is using her own judgement here too.

Another common complaint from the male is the popularity of those "horsey looking chains" women wear around their necks. Still, that isn't a herd of horses wearing medallions on campus.

Referendum at Dalhousie U.

Dalhousie, Oct. 29. — Dalhousie University students are at present considering continuing their membership in NFCUS.

Decision to hold a referendum came following a student forum held to hear a report from a Dalhousie delegation to a recent federation meeting.

Chief topic of discussion was the NFCUS rejection of an exchange tour system with Russian students. Dalhousie voted in favour of the plan.

The motion to withdraw did not mention the Russian tour proposals, but student officers said that this matter will no doubt influence the voting. The motion was made by a group which felt that NFCUS is not necessary.

Nurses Invited Minus Hypos

All 55 of the Graduate Nurses are invited to the Post Graduate Dance on Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the Union Lounge. This dance will mark the first organizational meeting of the Post-Graduate Students.

The nurses are reminded that this dance is to be a peaceful affair, that is, they are requested to leave all hypodermic needles and other painful paraphernalia at the door. Refreshments will be served.

Parochial Schools Win Out

Hillel Debators Find Public Schools Second to Parochials

In a debate held yesterday at Hillel the negative side composed of Sonia Rosenberg and Sybil Schwartz, defeated David Franklin and Irwin Margolese on the topic: Resolved "That Public Schools Better Equip The Individual To Face Life Than Do Parachial Schools."

This marked the second of ten bi-weekly debates that Hillel is sponsoring. A novel feature which will recur throughout this series of debates is the dual participation of those in the audience as judges and as members of the open forum which follows the addresses of the speakers. Formulaires distributed after the debate enable the audience to register its decision and any pertinent remarks.

The negative argued that a parochial school accomplishes a two-fold task—primarily it teaches good citizenship and abides by the regular curriculum as taught in the public schools; secondarily it supplements fundamental religious instructions and affords the student a better perspective of his position historically and socially.

The affirmative stated that the curricula of parochial schools are conducive to biased judgments, and that they subordinate the "more basic subjects such as history and geography "to religious topics of lesser value.

Morris Chakelson was the chairman of this debate.

The next one is to be held on Nov. 12, and in future there will be debates every second Wednesday. All students are invited to attend. The topic for the next debate is "Intermarriage and Harmonious Family Relations." This is considered a common subject of argument today and students are urged to come and voice their opinions in the open forum.

Controversy Ended

Regents' Loyalty Oath Outlawed at U. of California

University of California. —(Exchange)— At the University of California, the Regents' loyalty oath has been outlawed.

More than three years of bitter controversy over the Regents' special loyalty declaration were ended Friday by a California State Supreme Court ruling which invalidated the oath and ordered the Regents to reinstate 17 faculty members who had refused to sign it.

The court's eight-count ruling, however, upheld the constitutionality of the Levering oath of 1950 and provided that the 17 professors must swear to this oath in order to get their jobs back.

The original oath, propounded by the Regents, covered only members of the University of California faculty.

Then came the Levering Act, signed into the statute books on Oct. 3, 1950, which provides that all state, county and municipal employees (specifically including officers and employees of the university) must swear that they neither advocate nor are members of any group advocating overthrow of the government by force.

In the court's opinion, existence of the Levering act deprived the Regents of authority to require accedence to a loyalty oath as a condition of employment by the university.

Friday's ruling ended litigation initiated in September, 1950, by the non-signers when they petitioned the Third District Court of Appeals, challenging the right of the Regents to revoke their appointments.

The lower court's April, 1951, decision in the case of Tolman (Edward H. Tolman, professor of philosophy, for the non-signers) vs. Underhill (Robert M. Underhill, secretary-treasurer of the Regents) invalidated the university's special oath and ordered reinstatement of the 17 jobless faculty members.

These decisions were upheld on Friday by the high court after the Regents appealed the lower court ruling on May 15, 1951.

Plans Made for Future CCF Meets

In the first meeting of the McGill C.C.F. Club—held on Tuesday, October 28th—the chairman outlined party policy and answered questions directed at him by new members. Plans were made for future lectures and discussions, and there was also discussion on the subject of the Model Parliament Bill.

A social season is also planned, and further meetings will be announced in The Daily.

Tories To Support Whigs

Model Parliament to Debate German NATO Membership

The Progressive Conservative Club will support the Liberal Bill to be debated at the Model Parliament in the Union Ballroom on Nov. 5.

The Liberals will form the Government this time, while the L.P.P., Progressive Conservatives, and the C.C.F. will take their turn in that order.

Leo Woytiuk and Richard DeLorme will speak for the P.C. Club on the Bill, which states:

Whereas the possibility of Russian aggression in Europe is a continuing threat to international peace,

And whereas the general defence of the North Atlantic community requires maximum co-operation among its members,

And whereas Western Germany should be a part of the North Atlantic community,

Therefore be it resolved:

That Western Germany be accepted as a full and equal partner in NATO until such time as the German Peace Treaty has been signed and a new all-German government has been formed.

A distinguished senator from the Canadian Parliament will be the Honoured Guest.

Only members of the Students' Council, Honoured Guests, and one member from each political club on the campus may vote. Other rules will be the same as those followed by the House of Commons of Canada.

The P.C. Club president, Don Joss, has announced that spectators at the Model Parliament will be welcome. He also pointed out that those people need not affiliate themselves with any club, but may occupy the independent benches.

The political clubs did not submit amendments to the Liberal Bill but independents may submit them, provided they comply with Rule No. 3 of the Model Parliament Steering Committee list of rules.

Rule No. 3 states that amendments and sub-amendments may be moved by Her Majesty's Royal Opposition or by any other interested students or club on the campus, subject to the following regulations:

(1) The amendment or sub-amendment must be tabled with the Steering Committee at least four days prior to the parliament.

(2) The amendment or sub-amendment must be accepted by the Steering Committee subject to the same regulations governing the acceptance of regular bills.

Amendments should be left at the Tuck Shop of the Union no later than Friday, Oct. 31 at 2 p.m.

Senoritas, Caballeros Meet in Union

"Hola senorita, hola senor, hola everything, meeting will come to order."

Although these words were not actually said, there was a general air of good-will when old members reunited and new-comers were made to feel at home at the first meeting of the year of the Spanish Club.

At the meeting last night, which was held in the Union, Bill Tous, president, gave an official welcome to the approximately 60 students.

George Arellano, vice-president, then explained the nature of the club and outlined its coming events. "There is an activity for every taste, whether it be intellectual or social. There will be speakers throughout the year and also dances etc.," he said. He added that later in the year, there would be a public speaking contest, in Spanish, in which students taking Spanish could compete.

Films on Chile, Cuba and Rio de Janeiro were then shown, followed by refreshments and recordings of Spanish music.

Mount Allison Inaugurates Chariot Races

Sackville, N.B. —(CUP)—Mount Allison's Engineers are at it again.

Last week this Engineering Society challanged any campus society to—yes—Chariot Races. According to the dictionary, which says, "chariot—an ancient two-wheeled car for war, state processions, racing . . . popular during the reign of Julius Caesar," this was undoubtedly the revival of an acient classic.

All clubs held frantic get-togethers to meet this threat and accept the challenge. Strategy was not available, but the, names of some charioteers (drivers to you) were revealed.

The Pre-Meds pinned their hopes on Glutius Maximus (in English the muscle where penicillin is injected). Their only comment was a bloodthirsty "Down with the Engineers."

Mount A's theologues came up with "Elijah's Fiery Chariot," with Elijah himself, beard and all, in the driver's seat. Whatever they do, the Slippery Saints are sure to be strong contenders.

The Engineers place their hopes in the Flying Frenchman. They are sure this Mad Parasite will bring them luck.

Whatever happens, Allison Downs will surely echo with the unusual and the unexpected. Let's go — off to the races!

21st Annual N.Y. Herald Tribune Forum:

'Building Leadership for Peace'

Fourth Session

Through the US Election

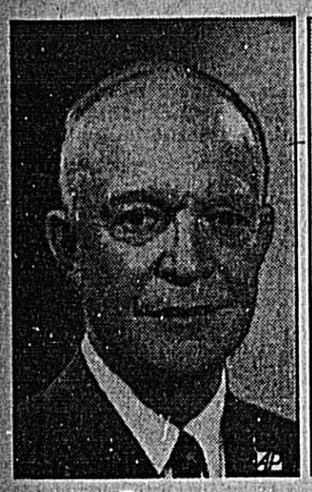
Climax of the 21st Annual Herald Tribune Forum came in the final session: "Building Leadership for Peace Through the Coming Election." Both United States Presidential candidates spoke to the Forum presenting their views on the world situation. Both pledged continued American leadership in the world-wide struggle against the threat of war.

The Democratic Governor stressed that "America has embarked on a role of leadership which is unique and which places a unique responsibility upon us." He said:



. . . Democrat

. . . Republican

"Leadership is a word we often use these days in thinking about America and America's role in world affairs. We mean several things by it, I think. We mean that the United States has become the strongest of the free nations, though it is not, of course, the largest, either in size or in population. As the strongest, the task of leadership has fallen to us. And it has to be borne by us or nobody."

"Our leadership . . . grows out of our own self-interest in our security. But it grows, too, out of wider and deeper concern for the safety of the values of western civilization — the ideas of freedom and equality and justice on which our nation was founded and which are rooted in friendly ground the world over. Above all, I think we mean by leadership that the United States has shown — and must show—responsibility in the use of its powers and influence."

The General expressed the hope that "in concert with our closest allies, a long-term consistent program should be produced, directing all of our economic power toward reviving free world economies and trade as a whole, instead of restricting our concern to

'An Awareness of Leadership'

For 21 years now the New York Herald Tribune has been holding an annual Forum, where the leaders of the United States could be brought together to provide information and opinion on the most important issues of the day. They are brought together to speak to college students, representatives of youth groups, professors, teachers, men and women from every walk of life and from all over the country.

The 21st Forum, which was held last week in New York, was a particularly important, interesting, and informative one. Two conditions made this the case. First, the threat of global war and the desire for peace. Second, the coming U.S. Presidential election.

The theme of the Forum, while dealing with global problems was approached from the U.S. viewpoint. In terms of responsibility, in terms of power, in terms of material

First Session

Through the United Nations

The Opening Session of the Herald Tribune Forum was entitled "Building Leadership for Peace Through the United Nations." As this implies, the work of the United Nations was examined and related to the problems the world has to face today. Main emphasis was put upon Technical Assistance and the stabilizing of the world situation, both politically and economically.

The organizers of the Forum were able to present the heads of the three major organizations charged with the responsibility for technical assistance —one stemming from the UN itself, one from the U.S. and one from the British Commonwealth countries. The idea was to clarify the role of each and to show how each one can complement the work of the other.

In welcoming the Forum audience and panel of speakers to the UN General Assembly building, Mr. Trygve Lie, Secretary General of the UN, emphasised the close relationship between the world political situation and the part we must play in its economic stabilization. He said:

"The long, hard struggle for peace in which we are engaged involves more than containment within peaceful bounds of the conflict between the Western and the Soviet-Chinese Camps. . . . . The building of collective security against aggression and the utmost use of all the resources for peaceful adjustment that can be developed are essential."

Mr. Lie outlined the present situation where "When we consider the main forces at work in the world today we find that in terms of population there are three roughly equal groups. One third live in countries controlled by the Soviet Union and its allies. One third live in countries adhering to the Western tradition. And one third—in Asia and Africa are seeking to find their own way, neither Soviet nor Western, to a new life of freedom and opportunity and equality. All three groups are represented in the United Nations."

The peoples of Asia and Africa, while in the depths of poverty, have at last found their voice; and it is a voice of protest, said Mr. Lie: "The demand for freedom, for equality of rights, for economic opportunity, can be heard with rising insistence and urgency by all who have ears to hear."

"We face here one of the great challenges of our civilization. Either we must find effective ways to answer it by the peaceful, evolutionary means proclaimed in the United Nations Charter, or we shall find ourselves engulfed by a succession of violent upheavals that will bring widespread chaos. The choice lies between a new Dark Age and a better age than the world has ever known before."

"We should never think of programs of economic development as charity. Peace with freedom and progress is a meaningless slogan for men with empty stomachs and nothing to live for. But the defense of peace with freedom can command unswerving loyalty from men given a fair chance to have a life worth living."

"That is why technical and financial assistance for economic and social development is as necessary to the preserva-

Trade, Not Aid

By HEWARD GRAFFTEY

We were told in the First Session of The Herald Tribune Forum that the United Nations were building leadership for peace not only by preaching and acting upon the doctrine of collective security but by perpetuating, through its combined agencies, an enlightened programme of economic aid to many countries in need. Those men who realize that a lasting peace only dwells upon a sound international foundation are continually citing this invaluable work of the U.N., which unfortunately receives all too little publicity. The ideals of democracy are of little concern to a poverty-stricken family desiring a roof over its head, and it was during the Second Session of the Forum that many responsible U.S. leaders portrayed the role that U.S. industry must play in an age of International interdependence. The participation in such a role is equally as applicable to Canadian industry.

New Ideas From New Voters

By MARY ANNE CURRIE

A universal problem of Democracies to-day is that of persuading their people to go to the polls; this is especially true in the case of the young age group. A public-opinion analyst recently stated at the Herald Tribune Forum that, of nine million new American eligibles, nearly four million have no intention of casting a vote.

In response to this statement, a panel of party leaders, workers, and students encouraged the younger generation to join a party organization to try to stimulate participation. They warned them that they would be discouraged at every turn no matter what party affiliations they held; determination must be their motto.

The importance of the role of "Young People in Politics," the theme of the third session of the Herald Tribune Forum, was illustrated not only in America, but in Asia as well. To Mr. J. A. Michener, author of 'Tales of the South Pacific,' the recent Indian election was the most important even in the last two years. A democracy was established in a nation with-ninety percent illiteracy. The "educated youth," he said, of India, Pakistan, and Indonesia must provide the leadership for his nation, on him rests the future of his democracy. Indonesia needs specialists; Japan, economic aid to give her a breathing space after her "wild gyrations from militarism" to dictatorship to occupation to free democracy." Even Pakistan, one of the stablist Asian Democracies to-day, has an uncertain future. In a matter of days the militant Muslim movement to "crush Israel, punish India, and evict France from Africa" said Mr. Michener, may destroy the progress of her young leaders. These are indeed challenges to freedom.

Freedom was defined by Mr. F. L. Allen, editor of "Harper's" Magazine, as "a faith in the ability of human beings to choose their path more wisely if they see all the choices before them than if they wear blinders." It is a challenge to America and to meet it one must have confidence; confidence in oneself, in one's country and future. Complacency will not secure it, he said. "Eternal vigilance" is the price of liberty.

Mr. Allen believes that the "delusion" that Communism is subverting America is "fostered by ignorant people whose capacity for suspicion is greater than their capacity for observation."

On the other hand, Mr. Whittaker Chambers, author of "Witness," illustrated the political power and energy Communism recently has given to its revolutionary faith; a faith contrary to the Christian tradition in that it emphasizes that man and his material destiny are the central facts of the Creation. To Mr. Chambers, Communism's answer to the question: God or Man, is Man. Freedom is no longer from God, but it is a matter of legislation by men, for other men. The infiltration of Western minds by Communism and its implications, he said, is the real threat to our freedom. To conclude he pointed out that the "walls of our minds must first be crumbled to rubble before the walls of our cities crumble under the bomb blast."

This stimulating third session of the Herald Tribune Forum on Building Leadership for Peace dealt very inclusively with the subjects, Young People in Politics and Freedom. As a suitable conclusion to the Forum a chorus was presented from Rodgers and Hammerstein's The King and I entitled "Getting to Know You."

From The Ivory Tower

TIME and GOP Ballyhoo

Like many others, our attention has been rivetted during the past few months on the American political scene which is presently standing on the threshold of an important election. Our interest is aroused because of the tremendous effect the election will have on world affairs, irregardless of which party gets into power. In addition, we happen to be one of those who reads TIME magazine every week to keep posted on world news, but who find themselves continually being bogged down with a lot of G.O.P. ballyhoo.

Our feelings on this subject were well expressed in a letter to the Editor which appeared in last Friday's issue of TIME from a gentleman from Woonsocket, R.I. He wrote: 'I, for one, will be very glad when the campaign is over and I can go back to reading Time without having to wade through all the Republican propaganda. It isn't possible that you don't realize that (1) the true Republican doesn't need it, (2) the Democrat won't believe it, and (3) the Independent will see through it . . .'

Technically speaking, we in Canada could classify ourselves in the category of being Independents, since we have no voice in the coming election, but are merely interested observers. As an Independent observer, the writer feels that TIME has adopted a policy of "cram-the-Republican-party-down-the-throat" where it is a little more than we can bear. We are not concerned at the moment in choosing a party to rule the U.S.A. for the next four years. Our interest lies in the problem of how far a publication of this size and scope can go in presenting one side of the news to its readers. We think it has gone too far already.

For a publication to indicate what individual or party they feel inclined to support is probably the essence of free press, but not in such a way as to be guilty of unfair and belittling treatment of a very able man. During the past two months, in particular, the editors have been presenting General Eisenhower as a picture of goodness, dynamite and grace, while Governor Stevenson has emerged as a "popeyed monster."

It is the duty of the press to present the facts that are making world history as they occur, and at the same time, it is their prerogative to comment on these happenings and give readers their own private opinions. With the circulation of this magazine being what it is, we have a publication which has an even greater obligation, not only to its readers, but to the nation. They fancy themselves as being (and indeed they almost are) the Voice of America, and yet they are guilty of how biased and one-sided the press can be if they so choose.

An organization of this kind has an obligation for being able to print their own views, and this obligation is purely an ethical one. TIME is completely unaware of any moral or ethical obligation they owe to the readers. In their mad fury to support one party, they have not been fairly treating another party, and so have not fulfilled their moral obligation.

TIME has about reached the point now where Republicans are saying to the editors: "I like Ike too, but . . ." Enough is enough. Let's start being a little less obvious and a little more rational in our treatment of the two political parties, and let's start remembering that we only have the power of free press because it is assumed that this power will not be abused.

STUDENTS' SOCIETY MEETING

A meeting of the Students' Society of McGill University will be held in the McGill Union Ballroom at 1.15 p.m.,

TODAY

The following resolution has been presented for consideration at the meeting:

Whereas: The Students' Society of McGill University supports its delegates in their decision to remain within NFCUS, but

Whereas: The Students' Society deplores the fact that NFCUS has violated its mandate by not effecting the Russian student exchange plan, contrary to the wishes of the vast majority of Canadian students.

Be it resolved that:

The Students' Society of McGill University instruct its Students' Executive Council to issue a call immediately to the eight universities concurring with McGill's stand at the NFCUS Council and to any other Canadian universities interested in joining McGill in the issuing of an invitation to a delegation of Russian students to visit universities on a reciprocal basis during this academic year.

R. A. SHACKELL,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Students' Society.

Ruggermen Set To Meet Blues

Tonight at 7:30 at Molson Stadium the McGill Ruggermen meet Little Ian's Westmount Blues. This is the second game between McGill and Westmount. In a pre-season game the Redmen defeated the Blues 11-8. McGill is the favourite as they have a 3-0 record as compared to Westmount's 2-2 record. Westmount's victories have been more convincing as they beat Ottawa 27-0 and 32-0, but they haven't met up with Ryan's squad for four weeks.

The official scoring statistics released today finds John Jackson leading the McGill team with eight points. Jackson will probably do the place-kicking from now on as he was the only kicker to put the ball through the hoops on Saturday, when McGill beat Toronto 14-0.

No injuries have been reported from last Saturday's game, and Howie Ryan will probably go with the same lineup as last week. He only has one problem—who to put in the outside wing position. Up until press time the coach made no decision on that position, but probably will put Dunc MacMillan, who is anything but in shape, because of the stomach flue, in that position.

Middle-scrum forwards, Larry Thornton and Herman Sullivan have been working together to better the centre of the line. Walter Wood, the front hooker, has been using new methods to get the ball in back of the scrum. Cookie Scott will once again play forward prop and Pete Engel will do his playing at wing forward.

The King twins, Barry and John, have been working together to speed the three-quarter line to a faster pace. Charlie MacMillan will again venture into the scrum-half position, replacing the injured Dave Straw. Due to the loss of Herb McNally, Dick Cowan will play lock-forward. Jim Prentice will be the other wing forward to complete the scrum-line.

Doug Bell will do the punting out of the full back position. Paddy Winser will be the fourth member of the three-quarter line.

Here are the standings of the Rugger Union:

| | W. | L. | F. | A. | Pts |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| McGill ..... | 3 | 0 | 34 | 8 | 6 |
| Westmount ..... | 2 | 2 | 67 | 16 | 4 |
| Ottawa ..... | 1 | 3 | 5 | 68 | 2 |

quests. It is not generally realized that McGill depends to a larger extent than most other universities in the British Commonwealth on private individuals and corporations, so that its development through more than a century is the direct result of the support that it has received from men and women of vision in the community which it serves, as well as from the great foundations in the United States and from research organizations.

Challenge

Under the heading of "The Challenge of Today," Dr. James reviewed in this section of the report the great industrialization of Canada, and its demands for an increasing number of professionally trained personnel, notably in commerce and engineering.

The university he noted, depends upon the community, but the nation depends for its advancement upon those institutions which provide training for its young men and women. "Ever since the middle ages the well-being of the community and its universities have been indissolubly linked. One cannot long survive without the other."

Bell Phone

A total of 112 Canadian companies are shown as taking into employment three or more graduates in commerce and engineering from McGill in the period under review. Topping the list is the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada which employed 57 in five years, followed closely by the Northern Electric Co. Ltd., with 52 and the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., with 50.

Dr James, in commenting upon this, pointed out that the effective utilization of Canada's resources by steadily growing numbers of scientists and engineers, has enabled Canada to assume a larger measure of responsibility for her own defence and to contribute substantially to the defence of the western world.

During the session under review there were 6,820 students registered for degree and diploma courses, as compared to 7,352 the previous session. Extension students numbered 4,903, an increase over the previous year.

Cage Meeting Tomorrow

A meeting for all those who intend to play intercollegiate basketball this season will be held in the main lecture room of the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium tomorrow afternoon at 5:30.

Head basketball coach Joe Anderson has issued a call to both freshmen and upperclassmen alike who are interested in trying for a berth on either the senior or intermediate team to attend the meeting.

For the first time, freshmen are ineligible for senior basketball competition. They can, however, perform with the intermediate squad as is the case in football and hockey.

The senior Redmen under coach Anderson who is embarking upon his second campaign at the helm of the squad will play a total of 18 games during the season. Ten of these are home and home intercollegiate contests against Queen's, Western, Toronto, McMaster, and a new league entry, Assumption College of Windsor.

The rest of the games are of an exhibition nature against American colleges as well as a local team.

The intermediate team will play in the Ottawa-St. Lawrence Conference once again and will play a total of nine games against conference opponents who are Queen's, Royal Military College, Ottawa University, Sir George Williams, Bishop's, Macdonald, Carleton, University of Montreal and Loyola.

Practices will start in earnest for both team next week. Candidates will come under close scrutiny of Anderson and his assistants. The makeup of the Redmen's 12 man squad will be finalized the end of the month. The team will make its first start at Winooski Vermont against the St. Michael's College Purple Knights on Nov. 27.

The Indians will play their first game on November 29 at the Currie Gym taking on Bishop's.

TOLCHINSKY CRUSADE

Due to circumstances beyond our control, Sol Tolchinsky's expose of McGill's professors will have to be postponed for a week. A substitute column has gone in today, but don't miss "The Cracked Mirror" next week for this crusade.

Pictured above is polo veteran Herbie Hops. This is Herbie's third year as goaltender with the senior polo Redmen. A dentistry junior, he is hard pressed to make the practices. Nevertheless, coach Ashton is placing his trust in Hops to help bring the Herschorn Trophy, emblematic of the Senior Intercollegiate championship, back to McGill after an absence of four years.

YMCA Drops Redmen 8-2 In Torrid Polo Fight

By LES JONAS

Last night, in the Central "Y" pool, a starry YMCA crew downed the Red poloists by an 8-2 score. This was a repeat performance of the 15-11 defeat they handed the team in their first exhibition game in the Memorial Pool last week.

Getting the ball into the opponent's net is still the trouble with Coach Norm Ashton's sextet. Jack Novick, last year's star, was definitely off in his shooting.

"If the team doesn't start to put in goals," said Coach Ashton, "we won't win a game this season."

The "Y" team was not superior to our squad as far as play was concerned. However, regarding the shooting, Y-men George Geurkes and Ian MacDonald stole the show. Geurkes potted four goals, while MacDonald netted a deuce. Prager and Young scored the other two for the "Y"; Jack Novick and Jerry Rimer netted singles for the home team.

Veteran goaler Herbie Hops minded our nets for the first half and the last quarter, being replaced in the third stanza by "Tiny" Townsend.

The play of the game was balanced and, if the pool would have been larger, the game would have been better and faster still.

Coach Norm Ashton is trying to arrange an exhibition game with Sir George Williams sometime next week and against RMC on Saturday, Nov. 8.

Scoring:

First Quarter
Geurkes—Y.M.C.A.
Second Quarter
Novick—McGill
Third Quarter
Rimer—McGill
MacDonald—Y.M.C.A.
Geurkes—Y.M.C.A.
MacDonald—Y.M.C.A.
Fourth Quarter
Prager—Y.M.C.A.
Young—Y.M.C.A.
Geurkes (2)—Y.M.C.A.

total registration mark.

290 BLED

Yesterday's total of 290 donors now brings the total number of pints collected this week to 738. With an objective of 1,500 pints of blood, a little more than half the objective will have to be obtained today and tomorrow.

Mrs. Mitchell, a member of the Red Cross staff, last night informed the Daily that she was pleased with the increased response to the drive. A number of McGill students have been dropping into Red Cross Blood Bank on St. Catherine street. The number of pints collected from these students will be added to the total for this week to determine the amount of blood given by McGill students to the Red Cross this year, Mrs. Mitchell said.

Half Hour

The Clinic is open from 9.30 to 12.30 and from 2.30 to 5.30 today and tomorrow. The entire procedure takes only a half an hour of the student's time. Refreshments will be served afterwards to the donors.

New Union—P. 1.

awarded by McGill, Dr. James said, was only a drop in the bucket in comparison to the need.

The report brought to the attention of the public the fact that the Students' Executive Council has, for the past two years through its New Union Committee, been studying the problem of a new Students Union.

This Committee has before it plans for a million-and-a-half dollar Union to be situated on the North side of Pine Avenue near the Gymnasium.

NEW UNION

Officials of the Committee stated last night that the mention of the need for a New Union in the Report was one of the most hopeful developments since the formation of the Committee. Plans, they said, were already underway to investigate other sites for the proposed building and methods of financing its construction.

Track Hopes Are Sidetracked As R.M.C. Wins Inter Meet

By LES DALY

Kingston, Oct. 29.—McGill's hopes for an intermediate track title were sidetracked this afternoon as the soldiers from RMC ran off with the Ottawa-St. Lawrence cinder crown. The high-flying cadets outclassed the rest of the field, racking up 67 points to runner-up Queens 45. The McGill forces hung up 25½ markers to wind up in third place.

Ken Lucie-Smith and Bill Herrington were the only Indians to grab first slots. Smith came out on top in the javelin as he tossed the long tooth-pick 136 feet to lead the rest of the pack by a good margin.

Herrington topped the field in the discus with a heave of 110 feet.

In the 220 yard low hurdles, McGill intramural champ, Paddy Winser grabbed a second place for the Red and White in a great race that was closer than two sides of a thin dime. The local lads picked up more points in this run as Jeff Davies captured a fourth place.

The Indians also placed twice in the pole vault. Bill Gillette and Freshman Gerry Levy picked up a third and fourth respectively. The strong wind blowing down the field played tricks with the pole vault bar. It was not uncommon to see a high-flying contestant sailing aloft only to have the wind knock down the bar before the boy even reached it.

In the mile run our side picked up points. Al Bond ran into a fourth spot.

In the gruelling three-mile run Bill Soule of RMC set a new record as he galloped home in 16 minutes, 37.7 seconds. Romping in right on his heels was the Indians' Bill Marshall. Frank Nemet came in a strong fourth to pick up more markers for Old McGill.

The locals grabbed their final points in the mile-relay with a fourth place.

The meet, run in frigid weather with a strong wind, was practically a runaway for the Kingston Cadets. The final team standings were RMC, Queen's, McGill, Macdonald and Sir George Williams.
